

rewrite LAB SUP 2 MAX CHOICE
Spring/86

Clearly, this paper does not merit publication at its present size in the JPE. The theory can be stated in five pages and the empirical results perhaps in another five. However, there is a useful point in the paper; namely, the interaction between sorting in the marriage market and labor supply and other decisions. A note of ten to fifteen typed pages might be useful since Grossbard-Shechtman and Neuman deal with important issues that are not receiving much attention.